1 Continuously saving data

Now that we have seen how we can extract data from dynamically generated content, create a webscraper that continuously saves the BTC-USD price from the interactive chart we used in the lectures.